

Please help...

...to contact GPs and healthcare workers to co-sign our letter

We are a group of doctors and healthcare professionals.

Many of us have advocated covid vaccines, particularly for adults.

But we are coming together now in light of new evidence that shows vaccinating children against omicron carries no benefit while alarming new risks for children are emerging.

So much has been invested in the roll-out that there appears to be reluctance to pause it – but it's the right thing to do.

We have written a letter to the UK government and its advisers, the JCVI, compiling the latest safety signals from evidence around the world that these vaccines are much more harmful to children than anyone expected.

They appear to agree, but are hesitating in the face of political pressure. You can help.

Please follow the simple steps on the right. It will take just a few minutes and has a real chance of saving young lives.
